

WELCOME BACK TO SCHOOL!

We have enjoyed seeing our beautiful campus come back to life over the last month. There is so much to look forward to on the calendar, and we hope you plan to make our campus & community events part of your families' celebration of the season.

Getting back into a school routine can be super hard for grown ups and students. Follow these three tips to get your school year started off right.

1. Get great sleep and eat healthy, frequent meals
2. Set up a dedicated homework space at home
3. Keep it positive!

Inktober

By: Ramona Downey, Grade 6

I have a goal every October. It is one that I have never finished. What is that goal, you ask? It is to complete all thirty-one prompts during Inktober. Inktober is a channel on Instagram. Every October they post thirty-one drawing, sketching or painting prompts for artists to use to inspire them to create, one for each day of the month. There is also one that goes for the whole year, though I've never tried it. The prompts can be as simple as "path," or as random as "sparkle," but they're always on theme for the fall or spooky season! I hope I gave you inspiration for an October hobby. You can find this year's daily prompts @Inktober on Instagram.

Campus Report

Geese have invaded our school. They come here every morning and eat the fruits or vegetables at the garden and doo-doo on school property, and that's a sign that the geese apocalypse is coming. Just kidding, or am I? The school basketball team is under way. Speaking of basketball, the professional basketball season will be starting on Oct 24 and I believe many Kings fans are excited. But the first game for the Kings will be against the Warriors which will probably stir up some beef between Kings fans and Warriors fans.
